

Kids, if you EVER detect the rotten-egg-like smell* of natural gas in the air, remember: Smell Gas? Act Fast! This means don't delay—get away! Don't look for the leak. Don't use or touch anything electrical, not even a cell phone. Leave the area. Then, call your natural gas provider. Or, dial 9-1-1.

Natural Gas FACT!

That's right, natural gas, in its natural form has no odor! The distinctive smell you recognize is actually added by the gas company to help you detect gas leaking into the air. This harmless odor, kind of like rotten eggs, is called mercaptan.
